SIG Coordinator

First of all, we would like to thank Edo Forsythe for all his contributions as the SIG Publications Chair. Our transition to our new publishing partner Castledown has been moving smoothly, and all our past articles should be available on our new website soon. We are also looking forward to our conference, JALTCALL2021, to be held online, as well as contributions to PanSIG and JALT2021 forums, and future collaborations and publications throughout JALT. Although it looks like 2021 will be another online year for many people, the CALL SIG is poised to make further contributions.

Publications Chair

In February 2021, the SIG published Teaching with Tech 2020, a collection of papers related to the research and practice presented at JALTCALL2020. I'd like to thank my Associate Editors, Anthony Brian Gallagher, Douglas Jarrell, Branden Kirchmeyer, Louise Ohashi, and James York for their amazing support in bringing this publication to our members. We also could not have published this book without the support of the layout and design by Paul Mason, and website creation by Paul Daniels, a Member-at-Large of the SIG Officers who usually serves as the assistant webmaster. The online-only version of the book is available from the CALL SIG Publications homepage at <https://jaltcall.org/publications/teaching-with-technology-2020/>.

As I mentioned in the SIG Publications Update email sent in February, the hosting of The JALT CALL Journal will be moving to the site of our publishing partner, Castledown, to provide a more efficient journal publication process and to widen the exposure our journal receives. The move should be transparent to our members and will not change access capabilities for anyone, nor will it incur additional costs to the SIG. When the move is finalized, the membership will be informed.

Finally, as I mentioned in my Publications Update, due to increasing work requirements at my university, I will not seek to continue as the SIG Publications Chair after my term ends in June 2021. Anyone interested in getting more involved in the SIG by replacing me as the Publications Chair should contact me at sig-publications@jaltcall.org. I'm happy to answer any questions about the job that anyone might have. Thanks and I hope to see everyone online at JALTCALL2021!

Program Chairs

Erin Noxon & Louise Ohashi

The Program Chairs are lining up the speakers for the PanSIG and JALT2021 forums as well as getting ready for the June JALTCALL conference. It will be a good one, for sure! See you online soon.
