As Editors, we are delighted to announce the publication of the second issue of Migration and Language Education. The second issue of the journal contains two articles, namely “Multicultural education: How are ethnic minorities labeled and educated in post-handover Hong Kong?” by Fang Gao and Jan Gube and “Towards Sustainable Internationalization in Higher Education post COVID-Voices from Non-Native English Speaking International Students in Canada” by Phoebe Kang. Both articles share the commonalities of migration-based global societies in the sense that the educational needs of the minorities are not properly reflected in the policy measures of the multicultural education and the higher education in Hong Kong and Canada respectively. The authors have attempted to identify the current educational problems that minorities face and to offer proactive policy recommendations for shifting the focus of the education into equity and diversity matters.

With this second issue of Migration and Language Education, five articles are successfully published in 2020. On behalf of the Editorial Board, we would like to express our gratitude to the authors and readers for their support in the initial stages of the project.

Especially we would like to convey our deep appreciation to all those colleagues who committed the time and effort to carefully review submissions for the journal. These colleagues are listed in alphabetical order:

Joan Pujolar Cos (Universitat Oberta de Catalunya), Jill Cummings (Yorkville University), Fang Gao (The Education University of Hong Kong), Jagdish Kaur (University of Malaya), Ann Lopez (University of Toronto), Hyun-Jeong Park (Seoul National University), Francisco Rios (Western Washington University), Glenn Stockwell (Waseda University), Mirja Tarnanen (University of Jyväskylä), Dorothy Zinn (Free University of Bozen-Bolzano)

We also would like to thank the members of the Editorial Board for their assistance in reviewing the articles and recommending experts in the relevant areas. Finally, we extend our thanks to the team at
